Hospital Will Take Ambulance Service Dec. 31

The Murray-Calloway County Hospital will accept the joint city-county ambulance service at midnight Dec. 31 although much of the equipment may not be transferred or delivered to the hospital until sometime in January, according to Stuart Poston, administrator.

In the Thursday afternoon hospital board meeting, Poston reported the radio equipment may not be transferred from the Angels of Mercy facility until after the New Year's holiday. Angels of Mercy, a private firm from Paducah, has the current ambulance contract that expires Dec. 31.

Poston added the three ambulances have been ordered for the hospital service. One may arrive by during the first week in January while the other two probably will not arrive until the first of February, Poston said.

An Angels of Mercy official offered to lease any number of his vehicles to the hospital service on a $400-a-month basis, Poston added.

The Paducah firm's radio antenna, located on top of Wells Hall on the Murray State University campus, was purchased by the hospital board for $900.

Poston said the service staff will be scheduled with 12-hour shifts seven days every other week. He added one position remains open.

Hospital controller Danny Watters said estimated figures project the ambulance service will cost $169,000 to run in 1980. The service presently is to receive a $90,000 annual donation from the city and county, with the city paying 40 percent and the county paying 60 percent.

In previous legislative action, the Murray Common Council voted to donate $36,000. The Calloway County Fiscal Court approved to donate $54,000.

It was not discussed by the board members where additional funds for the service, to be named the Murray-Calloway County Hospital Ambulance Service, would come from.

Following several months of discussion, the hospital board, in its October meeting, voted to accept the ambulance service.

Local funeral homes provided the city and county ambulance service for many years. However, on April 11, 1973, the funeral homes turned down a request to continue the local service after a July 1, 1973, contract deadline.

On June 14 of that same year, Judge-Executive Robert O. Miller and then-Mayor Holmes Ellis signed a two-year contract with the Angels of Mercy. That contract, along with increases in subsidy, has been extended since that time.

READY FOR OCCUPATION — Calloway County Middle School will be ready for occupation by county seventh and eighth grade youngsters on Wednesday, Jan. 2. The building, which has approximately 60,000 square feet, contains 22 regular classrooms, a regulation hardwood floor gym which will seat 800 people complete with two cross courts and six basketball goals, a commons area that will accommodate 250 people, library, a music room with two practice rooms, storage area and office, two multipurpose rooms, a cafeteria with two serving lines, two special education rooms, and a main office with a guidance office, first aid room, workroom, teachers lounge, conference area and a principal's office.

Approves Rezoning, City-County Cooperation Agreement

Council Enacts Two Ordinances

Two ordinances dealing with salaries of municipal employees, one rezoning a piece of property from professional office to commercial use, and a cooperation agreement between the city and the county were among items enacted by the Murray Common Council Thursday.

Meeting in its final session of 1979, the council approved on second and final reading ordinances setting the salaries of the city clerk, city attorney and city treasurer and fixing salaries and job classifications for other city workers.

The rezoning action dealt with a piece of property at 703 Main St., adjacent to and owned by Parker Ford. The commercial zoning will permit the use of the property in the firm's automobile business.

The agreement between the council and the fiscal court deals with jaws of life rescue equipment that has been furnished by the Murray Woman's Club. The van currently being used by the Murray Fire Department to transport the equipment to wreck sites in the county currently needs replacing.

The agreement stipulates that the county will provide a new van and the city will provide personnel and all operational and maintenance costs for the vehicle. The van will be manned by Murray Fire Department personnel and will continue to be available throughout the county.

The council authorized the current fire department van to be advertised for sale and disposed of via sealed bids.

Also Thursday, the council discussed the possibility of leasing city-owned property on U. S. 641 N. to an oil company which has proposed to build a new gasoline service station on the site.

Mayor Melvin B. Henley advised the council that Belcher Oil Company had proposed to lease a portion of the property for a new station and indicated that if a new station could be built, an additional allocation of gasoline for Calloway County would stand a strong chance of winning federal approval.

It was suggested that the city pursue the matter by getting appraisals on the property and that city attorney J. William Phillips check into the technicalities of such a lease. The question was raised as to whether or not the city should conduct such a lease proposal on a bid basis giving anyone who desired the opportunity to obtain the lease.

City Planner Steve Zea announced that the street department is trying to "wind-up" its leaf pickup program and asked that any residents who still have leaves that need to be picked up to call 753-3790.

It was also announced that the Murray Transit System would begin making runs again on Wednesday, Jan. 2, 1980.

The council authorized that a resolution be drawn honoring L. D. Miller for his many years of service as director of the Municipal Housing Authority. Miller was told by the Municipal Housing Board earlier this month that his contract would not be renewed after Dec. 31. Miller has held the post since 1958. The council will meet at 5:15 p.m. Monday, Jan. 7, for a swearing in ceremony to begin the new year. The first regular meeting of the panel will be Thursday, Jan. 10.

Fire Marshal Lists Changes To Be Made In Murray Hospital

Murray-Calloway County Hospital administrator Stuart Poston told the hospital's board of commissioners Thursday that a recent inspection had uncovered deficiencies in the new wing at the hospital.

Poston said that the state fire marshal's office found items that need correcting by Jan. 15 if the addition is to be approved by the state.

The items listed include the lack of a 48-inch front door to the wing. It currently has two 36-inch doors, Poston said, adding that one of the doors will be increased to 48 inches.

Sprinkler systems also need to be installed in storage areas, Poston said. He added the systems need to be put in because of a 1965 fire code.

The emergency door, installed in 1962, needs to swing out instead of in when opened, Poston said.

In other action, Poston reported there has been no progress in the building program since last Friday, due to the Christmas holiday. He added work will not resume until Jan. 2.

Poston told the board members all immigration proceedings have been finalized for two orthopedic surgeons from Montreal to come to Murray. He added they are scheduled to arrive in late January or early February.

The physicians are Dr. John Golbert and R. Raymond Cherette.

The Montreal doctors have requested the board purchase orthopedic equipment totaling $101,000. The board then authorized Poston to borrow $200,000 from the bank for the equipment and to keep hospital finances in the black. Poston said hospital occupancy has been down due to the Christmas holiday.

The board approved an offer by the Bank of Murray to install a 24-hour teller machine in the hospital. Site of the teller has not been determined.

Dr. William Wilson, hospital chief of staff, said the Dr. Russ Howard will assume the chief of staff duties in January. Wilson added the medical staff feels their representative to the board needs to be elected for a three-year term. Currently, the hospital representative serves one year.

Tabriz Fighting Erupts; Iranian Official Wants Hostage Spy Trials

By ALEXANDER G. HIGGINS
Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Fighting erupted in Tabriz, capital of the northwest Azerbaijan region, and members of the dissident Azari Turks' political party wounded one Revolutionary Guardsman and took 10 other Khomeini men hostage, the official Pars news agency said today.

Meanwhile, the foreign minister angrily demanded spy trials for the U.S. hostages Iran is holding if America pushes for U.N. sanctions against his country. At least 10 of the captives were reported rebelling against their captors, and there was no sign their jailers would free any of them.

Pars, quoting the Revolutionary Guard office in Tabriz, said the attack began Thursday night when an unidentified group set fire to a pavilion set up for Friday prayers.

The guardsmen, chief security force for revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, pursued the unidentified attackers past the headquarters of the Moslem Peoples Republican Party. Groups identified only as "counter-revolutionaries" also attacked and tried to set fire to banks and newspaper offices in Tabriz, Iran's fourth largest city, Pars said.

Pars reported the revolutionary guardsmen said they had so far been unable to negotiate release of the hostage guards.

The party is loyal to Ayatollah Mohammed Kazem Shariatmadari, Iran's second-ranking religious leader. His followers clashed with guardsmen in Tabriz earlier this month.

In Tehran, the embassy militants denied reports that seven hostages had been transferred from the compound to a maximum security jail. The official Pars news agency also denied distributing the report.

First word that Pars was carrying the report came from the NBC-TV correspondent in Tehran, who said Pars got its information from the French news agency, Agence France Presse.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh

told reporters Thursday night that the United States has interpreted every Iranian "good gesture as a sign of weakness." He referred to Khomeini's decision last Friday to allow three American clergymen to have Christmas visits with the hostages and President Carter's announcement that America would seek U.N. sanctions against Iran in a bid to pressure the release of the captives.

Ghotbzadeh remained silent on the Carter announcement until after the three visiting clergymen left Iran Thursday morning, but he was clearly angry when he gave his country's official reaction to the plan.

"All of a sudden we realize their (America's) whole propaganda is absolutely ridiculous," Ghotbzadeh said. "Now they are going to the Security Council just because they know in January the composition of the council will be different, and this is not acceptable to us."

"If the United States continues to put pressure on us...I don't see any usefulness in having this grand jury. It is better to have the normal trial of the hostages," he said.

Ghotbzadeh has been pushing a proposal to convene an international "grand jury" to hear Iranian grievances against the United States, with the hostages appearing before it as witnesses, but "not as the accused."

He put forward the plan after the Shah of Iran left the United States for sanctuary in Panama, a move he saw as a victory for Iranian determination. The Iranian militants who seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran Nov. 4 have demanded the shah be returned for trial or all the captives would be tried as spies.

Before they left Iran, the clergymen, who met with 43 of the hostages, urged conciliation on both sides to end the 55-day-old U.S.-Iranian standoff.

The clergymen arrived in the United States Thursday night and said they would relay messages from the hostages to their families today. They also planned to discuss the situation with American and Iranian officials in Washington. "We must find subtle enough overtures of good will to be signs of some movement, without suggesting a give away," the Rev. William Howard, a Baptist from Princeton University, told reporters in Tehran.

Howard was joined on the three-day mission by the Revs. William Sloane Coffin and Thomas Gumbleton. But it was Howard who saw the largest number of hostages — 21 — at the occupied embassy compound on Christmas Day.

He told reporters 10 of the captives were "clearly rebellious spirits," who "said sort of snappy things to their guards (and) let it be known their will had not been broken."

"They said things like 'What do these guys (the militants) know?'" Howard said after his rare glimpse behind the guarded embassy walls.

For example, he noted that the militants barred their captives from any political discussion with the visitors, but "one guy said (to the guards) 'Can I ask a question about the Rose Bowl, or is it too political for you?'"

Howard, who did not name any of the hostages he saw, said five or six of them "might have had teary eyes, some signs of worry."

Gumbleton, the auxiliary Roman Catholic bishop of Detroit, said the two woman hostages, Katherine Koob and Elizabeth Ann Swift, apparently were being held in solitary confinement, but were very strong.

When our meeting was over, the woman walked back to their detention areas singing carols, he recalled.

The militants at the embassy refused to confirm or deny a report that the Khomeini regime had "suggested" three hostages of Mexican, Indian and Portuguese descent be released. Told of the report, a spokesman for the militants reacted angrily and said any such information would have to come from them.

There was no explanation for the ethnic breakdown.

Highway Contractors Study Released

30 Percent Of Paved Primary Roads In State Are Deficient

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Almost 30 percent of all paved primary roads in the state are deficient by national engineering standards, according to a study sponsored by the Kentucky Association of Highway Contractors.

The report released Thursday estimates that such roads cost the average motorist an additional $84 a year in wasted fuel, excessive tire wear and extra vehicle repairs.

The survey was drawn up by The Road Information Program of Washington, D. C., which handles research sponsored by the highway industry.

It recommended a 10-year program to upgrade the 6,869 miles of affected roads at an average estimated cost of $24.6 million annually.

The study was publicized at a time when Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. and the 1980 Legislature are considering ways of bolstering the financially ailing Transportation Fund.

A governor's task force has estimated $300 million a year will be needed in the next decade to maintain all state roads adequately.

The road information study included all paved primary roads, saying that although they account for only one-third of Kentucky's nearly 70,000 miles of public roads, they handle 88 percent of the state's average daily traffic volume.

Those 23,000 miles include primary highways and streets which are under state, county and municipal jurisdiction.

The road information group, known as "TRIP," said the standard for determining deficiency was developed by the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials and is widely used.

By this yardstick, about 600 miles of Kentucky's most heavily traveled paved roads were rated poor, characterized by extensive cracks, ruts and breaks.

Another 6,067 miles of paved primary roads were rated fair, which the report said also is considered substandard.

The road information organization said its information was compiled from highway tests and data from state and federal agencies and fleet operators.

"The road tests established that vehicles used more fuel when they had to stop or slow down from the posted speed to safely pass over deteriorated sections of pavement," the report said.

"...Test vehicles operating on rough, bumpy and broken pavement also used extra fuel because of a loss of traction on the uneven road surface and because of an uneven power flow through the drive train as a result of excessive vibration."

The study did not include increased costs to drivers because of various types of traffic congestion, nor did it compute losses from accidents caused by defective pavement.

The road information group said that despite periodic uncertainties over adequate supplies of gasoline and diesel fuel, traffic volume in Kentucky is expected to grow by as much as 40 percent in the next decade.

"Because of increased travel with more efficient use of fuel, roads and bridges are wearing out faster than motor fuel taxes are being generated to upgrade them at present tax levels," the report said.

FOR SATURDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1979

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)

A few financial problems now could be just what you need to reorganize your financial picture. Practicality wins out.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)

Some difficulty now in getting along with others, but by day's end you're able to surmount troubles. Be patient and loyal.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20)

A night at home may be just what you need to cut down on inner tension. A slower pace may make many problems disappear.

CANCER (June 21 to July 21)

Some petty annoyances in the area of friendships may mean it's time for a serious talk. Show others your sincerity and you'll succeed.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22)

Too many irons in the fire could muddle career efforts. Clarify objectives and then work towards their realization.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)

A change in plans could set you off course. Don't let non-essentials upset you. Minimize distractions for ultimate success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

Problems in the area of joint finances could arise now. Avoid arguments and put your heads together to find solutions.

Teen-Agers Give Views

DENVER (AP) — Outstanding teen-agers today are more conservative than their counterparts from the early 1970s and, more often than not, want to be doctors or lawyers when they grow up, a nationwide survey shows.

Rand McNally & Co. surveyed 50,000 high school students included in "Who's Who Among American High School Students" for the 1978-1979 school year and found that only 8 percent said they smoked marijuana and 8 percent favored living together before marriage.

In 1972, about 27 percent of the "Who's Who" teen-agers surveyed said they smoked marijuana, and in 1971, about 47 percent said they supported cohabitation.

This year's crop of students opted for careers in professional fields when asked what they wanted to do. Forty-one percent said they wanted to be doctors or lawyers, while 21 percent said they would choose business administration as their field.

HEALTH

Wants to stop laxatives

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I must have what is called spastic colon as I have been trying for the past two years to get away from laxatives with little results.

I'm 71 years old, in excellent health, swim a half a mile every day, walk and bicycle and occasionally jog.

I drink at least 10 to 12 glasses of water a day and eat about a half a cup of raw bran from the health food store each morning. I practically live on fruits and vegetables, eating all of the skins of not only my own but also my husband's.

In spite of this, I will go for four or five days and then I begin to feel uncomfortable and get headaches and then resort to a laxative. Oh yes, I forgot to tell you that in addition to bran, I drink water with a heaping teaspoon of Metamucil three times a day.

Several years ago I had a barium enema which showed no difficulty except diverticula. We do a lot of traveling and in spite of carrying bran and Metamucil on trips, I have even more difficulty with elimination. I would appreciate any suggestions.

DEAR READER — You're doing most of the things that we usually suggest for people with irritable or spastic colon problems. I can't see that adding any additional bulk to your diet, other than what you're already getting, will really help a great deal.

You might benefit by attempting to train yourself to have a regular habit. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable Or Spastic Colon And Constipation.

There is a natural reflex that occurs after eating. It's called the gastrocolic reflex. When the stomach is filled, there is a reflex for contractions of the colon. By training and developing this reflex, it helps to promote regular elimination.

The natural reflex is discussed in The Health Letter I'm sending you. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long.

Another year is ending, leaving many scars, and another year begins with many problems.

As I watched on television all the Christmas programs with the many Santas, the glittering Christmas trees, and piles of elaborate gifts, I was reminded of Ecclesiastes 1:2 where the preacher said, "All is Vanity," and in 3:1, "To everything there is a season."

How true.

There is the season of youth when we long for possessions, but when age creeps on and health is gone, we may, as in 2:11 "look on the works our hands have wrought and behold that all was vanity and vexation of spirit."

Christmas, alone, is far different from Christmases remembered for family gatherings.

But the kindness of thoughtful ones helps. An unusual gift in these modern times was fresh meat and country sausage from Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pat Wilson who still kill hogs.

Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson brought cakes and salad.

I was also grateful for a piece of the cake baked for the 65th wedding anniversary of the Dan McClures, though it had to be served in the hospital.

Many other remembrances brightened gloomy days.

Maud Nance miraculously came home for Christmas after weeks in the Murray-Calloway County Hospital.

Mrs. Herman Lovins also came home from a Lexington hospital.

But others continued to endure sadness. Loman

Vandyke Sunday afternoon and brought them a nice fruit plate from the Sinking Spring Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gallimore and Mr. and Mrs. Gaylon Morris visited Mrs. Jessie Paschall, Mrs. Bernice Rainey, and Louise Holley on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lewis of West Memphis, Ark., and Miss Cindy Phelps of Murfreesboro, Tenn., visited the Rev. and Mrs. James Phelps over the weekend.

Here's wishing the Murray Ledger & Times Staff and all the correspondents and readers a very happy holiday and a happy prosperous New Year. May 1980 be the best year ever.

Writer Remembers Christmases Of Past With Large Family Gatherings

Mrs. Herman Lovins also came home from a Lexington hospital.

But others continued to endure sadness. Loman

Bailey's heart attack hospitalized him and put his invalid wife in the Long Term Care Unit of the Murray-Calloway County Hospital.

Deward Cook had heart surgery in Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lovins visited Hatten Lovins in the Care Inn, Mayfield, where he lies helpless since a bush hog accident months ago.

So many others suffered during the holidays that, though alone, I knew how to appreciate being home.

Mrs. Etha Bailey could also count the blessing of being able to visit her brother, Ewitt Chrisman, in Paris, Tenn.

Otis Lovins, after a family gathering at his home, went to Colorado Springs for the holidays.

As I have been since Jan. 4, 1979, almost a Rip Van Winkle as to events, I cannot name all celebrations.

But I could sympathize as I saw the funeral procession for Mr. Valdie Rowlett going to New Concord Cemetery where five or six new graves were added, both in 1978 and 1979.

Such certainties should awake all those who donated toward the permanent upkeep of that cemetery, that a roadway was also donated by Mrs. Ira Dean Bucy, and that a road should be made and that future care should be assured for "The future will soon be present. And the present will soon be past."

By the same token, tough contracts are not made by taking losing finesse. Look over today's layout for an example of good play.

North-South were quite aggressive in their bidding. So much so that East-West never did bid spades, thereby missing their ice-cold game.

At four hearts, West led the spade king, East signaled by dropping the queen and declarer ruffed. Wondering why neither opponent had bid, declarer concluded that the diamond finesse was bound to fail.

Obviously, West had started with a good spade suit and his failure to overcall one spade clearly placed the diamond king with East.

So instead of trying a losing finesse, declarer played a diamond to dummy's ace and a low one back. This dropped East's king and the diamond suit was ready to run. But the hand was not over yet.

Had declarer played for trumps to be split, East's discard on the second round would have brought bad news and made the hand unmanageable.

Staking all on a 4-1 trump break, declarer ruffed East's spade return and played only his ace of trumps, dropping East's 10. Next a diamond was led to dummy's queen and, when East failed to ruff, declarer visualized the distribution.

After the diamond queen held, declarer returned to his hand with the ace of clubs. A high diamond was led, West ruffed and dummy overruffed. Finally,

Carter And Kennedy To Meet In Iowa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Campaign strategists for President Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy are playing the expectations game as they prepare for the first political match of 1980 in Iowa.

The rules are simple: try to plant the impression that victory in Iowa is crucial for the other candidate, but not for your man.

The first primary election is in late February, but delegate selection begins in earnest with Jan. 21 caucuses in Iowa, where Carter and Kennedy are scrapping for support.

In verbal jousting, the Carter people are attempting to portray an Iowa victory as a "must" for Kennedy, but not for Carter himself.

"Iowa is looming larger and larger and is shaping up into a real dog fight," said a White House official who asked anonymity. "The Kennedy people are really going to roll the dice big. A loss there would be devastating to them."

Robert Keefe, a political consultant working for the CarterMondale Campaign Committee, says Vice President Walter F. Mondale reported after a visit to Iowa that he found "significant" Kennedy strength where he had found none a few weeks earlier.

Kennedy and his staff say just the opposite. Ask Kennedy about Iowa and he says Carter "has to win."

"We're behind in Iowa," says the senator's spokesman, Tom Southwick. "It's catch-up ball as far as we're concerned."

Such comments, on both sides, have to be taken with skepticism; both sides are hoping to damage the loser as much as possible should their man win, while cutting the impact of their own possible loss.

Despite such bad-mouthing, interviews in Washington and with political figures in several states indicate Carter's own confidence, which showed no signs of sagging during his roller-coaster ride in public opinion polls, is now reflected among campaign insiders.

Ever since the Iranian crisis began on Nov. 4, one close Carter aide says,

Lesson

John The Baptist

John 1:19-34

John the Baptist was one of the world's greatest characters. Of him Christ, the greatest judge of men said: "Among those that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist" (Matthew 11:11). Greater tribute than this has never been received by any man.

God chose, equipped, called, and commissioned John the Baptist to prepare the way for the coming Messiah. In modern parlance he was the advance man for Christ. He bore a faithful witness to the eternal Christ Who had shared the glory of the Father before the creation of the universe. He rejoiced in the privilege of proclaiming the pre-existence and the preeminence of Christ, the perfect revealer of the Father. He gladly testified that Christ was far above him and all others, and that He always would be.

John the Baptist attracted great crowds and stirred the people deeply with his messages on sin, judgment, repentance, and forgiveness. It was inevitable that such positive and powerful preaching as he did would create an awareness of need on the part of many listeners. In view of his preaching, it is not strange that some began to wonder if he were not the long-expected Messiah.

A deputation from Jerusalem has sent to interview John the Baptist and to ascertain whom he claimed to be. When this deputation asked him if he were the Messiah, or Elijah, or the prophet who had been promised, John the Baptist quickly declared that he was neither, but that he was only "the voice of one crying in the wilderness," and that he was dedicated to the glorious task of delivering God's message to those who needed it so much. With commendable humility he acknowledged his insignificance in contrast with the Messiah, the latchet of whose shoes he was not worthy to unloose.

After Christ had submitted to baptism at the hands of John the Baptist, which was the culminating point in the ministry of the forerunner, and had been subjected to the temptations, He returned to the place near the Jordan River where John was preaching and baptizing his converts therein. When he saw Christ approaching, John the Baptist said: "Behold the lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world," which was the first public designation of Christ. Instead of pointing to Christ as the great moral "People are seeing an aspect of this president that has not been seen before." His poll rating has improved, just in time for the Iowa caucuses.

Iowa will also be important to California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. While Kennedy and Carter are out hunting for delegates, Brown hopes to emerge as a serious contender, based on his performance in the debate in Des Moines on Jan. 7.

After Iowa, the next test is in New Hampshire, which all candidates concede is Kennedy country.

After New Hampshire comes Florida, where the state Democratic Party organization, backing Carter, claims the president could win 60 percent of the primary election vote if the balloting were held now.

The first major Carter-Kennedy test will be March 18 in Illinois, a major industrial state where neither candidate has an edge from the start.

From Illinois, the emphasis will shift to a second tier of primary states, including New York and then Pennsylvania.

Those two states, and Illinois, will elect approximately 600 delegates to the convention. The winner will need 1,667 for the nomination.

By the time the votes are counted in Pennsylvania on April 22, "things could tend to tip a little," Keefe said.

example, and the great teacher of love and holiness, John the Baptist proclaimed Him as one who had come into the world to be the great sacrifice for sin. Only the Lamb of God can lift and bear away the guilt and penalty of sin. Behold Him who is so lovely, loving, and lovable! There is not anything about Him except that which is appealing and inspiring.

Surrender your all to Christ and give Him your very best in faithful obedience. Living and witnessing for Christ will afford you the truest joy, the greatest satisfaction, and the largest usefulness. There is not anything you can do with your life that will be as satisfying and rewarding as investing it in the service of Christ, the Son of God and the Saviour of men.

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. HEARTLINE: My husband and I are planning on visiting my husband's parents in Europe. He hasn't seen them in 20 years. While we are there, we intend to spend two weeks traveling through Europe, and from Europe we are going directly to South America. Can you give us some travel tips? I don't know if you give advice on this kind of subject matter, but we thought we would ask anyway. — B.A.

International travel can be a rich and rewarding experience, or it can be a nightmare. A minimum of preparation can help make your visit a trouble-free and memorable one. The following suggestions should be helpful, especially to older citizens planning to travel abroad.

1. Your passport should be applied for early. Allow yourself plenty of time. Also, you may need a visa. Check with the embassy or consulate of the country you intend to visit.
2. Leave an itinerary. Give your friends, relatives and/or coworkers a detailed travel schedule, including your passport number. Should an emergency at home develop, you can then be reached.
3. Don't overprogram. Many travelers make the mistake of trying to see and do everything. Don't try to do

"And they sang a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred and tongue, and people, and nation." Revelation 5:9

So much of our singing is subjective; the song of the redeemed saints in heaven had only praise to Jesus. How worthy He is of our praises!

too much by filling up every free minute. Be sure to allow time for relaxation and really enjoy your trip.

4. Learn a little about the countries you intend to visit. Take time to read up before you go.

5. Consider carefully the clothing you plan to take. Travelers often pack much more than they need and end up having to contend with unnecessary and burdensome extra baggage weight. Wash and wear and permanent press clothing require minimum care. Consider climate and seasonal conditions.

6. Don't take cash. Take a reasonable amount of money with you, a little more than you think you will need. But take most of your money in traveler's checks. When you arrive at your destination, convert only as much as you need into local currency. Credit cards can be used to eliminate carrying many checks. When cashing traveler's checks or converting currency, deal only with banks and approved currency exchanges. It is a violation of law in some countries to enter with excessive amounts of the currency of that country; check with your travel agent or the embassy or consulate of each country in advance. Most travel agencies can provide addresses.

7. If you are injured or become seriously ill, or if you encounter serious problems of either legal or financial nature, contact your nearest U.S. Embassy.

8. Know if your own health insurance will cover you abroad. Medicare will not cover you, nor will Medicaid. Find out what coverage is available to you.

9. If you take medication, be sure to pack an ample supply in its original container, along with a copy of the doctor's prescription.

10. If possible, take an extra pair of eyeglasses.

11. Pack medication and extra eyeglasses in your hand luggage so it will be available in case the rest of your luggage is lost.

12. Respect the local laws and customs. Remember your constitutional rights as an American do not extend to a foreign nation. If you violate the laws of the host country, you may be subject to a fine or imprisonment.

13. Register with the nearest U.S. Embassy or consulate if you plan to be in one area for two weeks or more.

14. Reconfirm your onward and/or return travel reservations upon arrival at each stopover. International flights generally require confirmation 72 hours in advance.

15. Guard your passport. Do not use your passport for collateral or pack it in your luggage. If lost or stolen, immediately notify the police and your U.S. Embassy or consulate.

The Story Of Calloway County 1822-1976

By Dorothy and Kerby Jennings

Copyright, 1978

This was the year of the county elections with excitement running high, as well as the announcement by the Chamber of Commerce for the construction of a stock yards in Murray. A barrage balloon site got under construction in nearby Paris, Tenn., and demand upon all countians willing and able to work was stretched to the maximum limit. Dr. A. D. Butterworth, commander of the American Legion, made an urgent appeal for scrap aluminum to be salvaged for the impending big moment.

Calloway County's nationally recognized pioneer surgeon, Dr. Will Mason Jr., died at the William Mason Memorial Hospital where he was chief surgeon and administrative director on Sunday, Nov. 22, 1941. Dr. Mason was credited with performing 40,000 operations in his lifetime, building of two hospitals, a member of an effective group in securing Murray as the site for the State Normal School. In addition he was a prominent sportsman engaged in the owning and training of trotter and pacer race horses.

After the disastrous air attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, the United States declared war on Japan and its allies, Germany and Italy. The effect these declarations had upon Calloway County people was tremendous. After the news of the Pearl Harbor disaster here that gloomy Sunday morning, folks stood around in small groups, dumb-struck from the information stating the bulk of the U. S. Pacific Fleet had been destroyed in the Hawaiian Islands. Church ministers fervently prayed for the safety of all U. S. citizens, with mounting fear California would soon be invaded by Japan.

The West Kentuckian, a weekly newspaper founded by Irby Wyatt, sold to a Mr. McFarland who died soon after assuming ownership, was purchased at an auction sale by O. J. Jennings. Mr. Jennings, after two years, sold to Mr. Van Winkle. Mr. Winkle merged with the Ledger & Times which was under the majority ownership of Mr. Percy Williams, a Paris, Tenn., editor. The consolidation occurred the middle of January, 1942, thus leaving two weekly newspapers in the county. The Murray Democrat was organized in the spring of 1941, with the former editor of the West Kentuckian, Kerby Jennings, as editor.

In Paducah Tilghman Invitational Basketball Tournament

Poor Shooting Leads To Tiger Loss

Quite often the best offense is a good defense. But, as the Murray High Tigers learned Thursday night, good defense cannot replace good offense.

The Tigers, handcuffed by a 27.8 shooting percentage from the floor, were ousted from the Paducah Tilghman Invitational Christmas

Basketball Tournament by Mayfield 57-41.

It wasn't until 3:27 remaining in the opening period when Murray got on the scoreboard against the Cardinals, who held the lead throughout the game.

"The ball just wouldn't fall. And our shot selection wasn't what it should have been," Tiger Coach Cary Miller said following the opening-round game.

"We just couldn't put the ball in the hoop and that's the name of the game," David Gallagher, assistant coach, added.

Down 16-8 at the end of the first quarter, Murray came back in the second but could get no closer than three points. Mayfield's advantage stayed at three as the teams went into the lockerrooms.

However, the Cardinals, last year's tourney champs, built up leads of 10 and 11 points in the third quarter and the Tigers suffered their fourth loss in nine outings.

"We were within striking distance a few times but something happened," Miller said. "But it is still a long time until March."

Miller added he did not think the Christmas layover led to his squad's stale offensive performance. "Mayfield has been off as long as we have," he said.

"We're in a shooting slump and we just cannot score. It has to be discouraging to them (the players)."

"There's nothing specific to work on," Miller added. "We've have to work the ball around more. We need some hard work and some luck."

The game was the first meeting of the year for Murray and Mayfield. However, the teams are scheduled to play twice during the regular season.

Miller said he anticipates making no major changes in his club for the next Mayfield clash Jan. 11 at Murray High.

Forward Bobby Daniel and guard Howie Crittenden paced Murray in scoring with 10 points each. The Tigers hit 17 of 61 floor shots for the night.

The Cardinals George Williams took the game's scoring honors with 23. Teammate Wes Mills added 21. Mayfield connected on 20 of 45 floor attempts for 44.5 percent.

The Tigers will be idle until Jan. 4 when they travel to Fulton County.

In other opening round games, Lone Oak edged Marshall County 63-62, Carlisle County slipped past Heath 52-51 and host Paducah Tilghman downed Livingston County 66-58.

In tonight's semi-final round, Lone Oak will play Carlisle County at 7 p.m. Mayfield and Paducah Tilghman will square off 30 minutes after the opening game ends.

The finals will be played at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

MURRAY (41)— Bobby Daniel 10, Howie Crittenden 10, Robin Roberts 8, Nick Swift 5, Greg Latta 4, Todd Bradshaw 4, David McMillen 0.

MAYFIELD (57)— George Williams 23, Wes Mills 21, Blaine Wastell 2, Chris Pyle 2, Andy Beale 2, Jon Redd 1, Jeff Flood 0, Joe Prince 0, Jessie Moss 0, Mark Wiman 0.

Murray High basketball coach Cary Miller discusses strategy with his squad during Thursday night's loss to Mayfield in the Paducah Tilghman Christmas Tournament.

Despite pressure from Mayfield's Joe Prince, Murray's Nick Swift goes up for two points. Swift totalled 5 points in the Tigers' 57-41 loss to the Cardinals.

Southern Cal, Alabama Picked To Be Big Winners As Bowls Ready To Start

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent LOS ANGELES (AP) — They say the customers always write, but the betting fraternity is more impatient. They use the more expeditious means.

Ring, ring, ring, goes the telephone.

"Where is that operative IX fellow who picks those college football games during the season?" a resonant Dixie drawl comes through the wires. "Haven't seen anything on the bowl games."

Well, we weren't exactly enthused about a postseason encore.

Ring, ring, ring, goes the telephone.

"Las Vegas calling," comes a cryptic voice. "How about those bowl picks? We're waiting to put out the latest line."

"Oh, we don't pick the games for gambling purposes," the caller was informed. "Didn't you know? Gambling is a vice. The picks are made purely for fun and shouldn't be taken too seriously."

Bang, goes the receiver.

Ring, ring, ring, goes the telephone.

"Las Vegas calling again," says the irritated party at the other end. "We don't give a hoot about your personal morals. Put on the guy who picked .813 during the regular season."

Okay, bud, you asked for it. But don't come around later asking that we help save the mortgage.

January 1
ROSE BOWL: Southern

California 28, Ohio State 7.

This is the grandpappy of the bowl games, they say. It's got enough moss on it to carpet the Rain Forest. It matches the nation's No. 1 team, Ohio State, against the No. 3, Southern Cal, and the national championship could be hanging on the outcome — barring a resurrection in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

From the beginning of the season, the Trojans have flaunted the best talent in the country, headed by the nation's leading ball carrier, Heisman Trophy winner Charles White and ace quarterback Paul McDonald and backed up by monstrous lines that could do credit to the NFL.

Ohio State's Art Schlichter has the size (6-2 and 200 pounds), the nerve and the talent but, as a sophomore, will find Trojans in his lap all day.

SUGAR BOWL: Alabama

33, Arkansas 12.

Chagrined over being bumped out of No. 1 place because of close squeaks against LSU and Auburn, the Crimson Tide will be loaded for bear (Bear Bryant, that is, the grandfatherly man in the checkered hat who is bearing down on Amos Alonzo Stagg's victory record.)

Lou Holtz is always quick with the quip but humor will come slowly after his Razorbacks are stamped by a thundering herd bent on regaining top place with a cascade of touchdowns.

ORANGE BOWL: Oklahoma 27, Florida State 7.

Remember it was Seminole

Coach Bobby Bowden himself who said, "The fans expect us to win every game, but nobody goes undefeated — and I mean nobody."

Bobby had to be thinking of that churning, hip-swinging thunderbolt named Billy Sims, the 1979 scoring champion and probably the No. 1 nugget in the pro draft. Florida State finished the season with great credentials but it didn't face an opponent as awesome as the Sooners.

COTTON BOWL: Houston

19, Nebraska 14.

Quick as a snake's tongue and tough as nails, the Cougars pull the day's major surprise, halting the Cornhuskers' L.M. Hipp & Co. A predominantly Texas crowd will get delirious.

December 28

GATOR BOWL: Michigan

25, North Carolina 10.

The Wolverines thought they would be headed for the Rose Bowl. The Tar Heels must bear the brunt of Michigan frustrations.

December 29

HALL OF FAME BOWL: South Carolina 20, Missouri 17.

The oddsmakers have it reversed. Don't believe 'em. The Gamecocks are an underrated, opportunist team.

December 31

PEACH BOWL: Clemson 23, Baylor 17.

Don't discount the fact that Clemson Coach Danny Ford learned his football at Bear Bryant's knee.

BLUEBONNET BOWL: Purdue 17, Tennessee 10.

The Vols see double when they look at Maarrkk Herrmann.

Giant-Killer Bremen Earns Spot In Boys Prep Basketball Poll

By CHARLES WOLFE

Associated Press Writer LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Bremen played the role of giant-killer in upsetting Owensboro 77-76 and, in the process, the Eagles gained a berth in this week's Associated Press boys high school basketball poll.

The loss, Owensboro's first in seven games, dropped the Red Devils from No. 3 to No. 7 in the poll by sportswriters and broadcasters. Bremen, 9-2, was ranked 14th.

Louisville Ballard received 16 first-place votes to retain its No. 1 ranking, although the Bears suffered their first loss of the season, 66-57 to Macon, Ga., Northeast in the Macon Invitational Tournament.

Ballard, 7-1, rebounded with a 67-59 victory over Macon St. John's.

Warren East, 6-0, crushed archrival Bowling Green 61-43 and collected three votes to remain at No. 2.

Louisville Moore moved up one place at 7-1 after routing defending state champion Lexington Lafayette 88-74 in the Fayette County Invitational Tournament.

Lexington Bryan Station, 10-0, moved from sixth to fourth by defeating Laurel County 64-59 in the Laurel County Invitational.

Louisville Doss, 6-0, was idle, but collected the remaining vote and climbed from No. 8 to No. 5.

Sixth-ranked Oldham County, 7-0, also jumped three notches after edging Fairview 52-50.

Covington Holmes, 4-1, downed Covington Catholic 84-72, but slipped one rung to No. 8.

Ashland, 6-2, rebounded from back-to-back losses with an 86-73 conquest of Phelps, but fell from fifth to ninth.

Frankfort was idle, but improved one position to round out the top 10 at 8-0.

Also idle was Louisville Central, 5-1, which advanced from 14th to 11th.

The bottom four teams all were newcomers to this week's ratings, including Bremen and a pair of Louisville teams — Atherton and Trinity.

No. 12 Atherton, 8-2, bombed North Hardin 80-53 and 13th-ranked Trinity, 5-1, held off Jeffersontown 78-68.

Despite the loss to Atherton, North Hardin, 7-1, gained the final ranking.

Victory Over Florida In Tourney Finals Extends Dolphin Streak To Nine

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

So far this season, the Jacksonville Dolphins are a school of flying fish.

Off to their best start since the great Artis Gilmore team of 1970, the undefeated Dolphins won their ninth game of the year with a 61-55 victory Thursday night over Florida in the finals of the Gator Bowl basketball tournament.

"That's a darn good basketball team," said Florida Coach John Lotz of Jacksonville.

The Dolphins were led by a familiar figure, James Ray, who scored 18 points and grabbed 12 rebounds. Maurice Rouhlac helped the Jacksonville cause with eight second-half points.

"Maurice played his best game tonight," Locke said. "I had a feeling he would come through tonight and he did."

In an earlier consolation game, Ron Falenschek hit two free throws with one second left to give Iowa State a 56-55 victory over William and Mary.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Chad Kinch and Donnie Koonce ignited a second-half rally and lifted North Carolina Charlotte to a 69-64 victory over Oregon in the Far West Classic in Portland, Ore. John Campbell scored 17 points, including four slam dunks, as Clemson defeated Texas Tech 79-68 in another first-round game.

Oregon State and Brigham Young won opening-round games in the tournament Wednesday night.

Jerry Shoecraft sank two free throws with three seconds to go in overtime to give Nebraska an 83-82 victory over Wisconsin in the opening of the 16th Rainbow Classic in Honolulu.

Bo Overton scored 16 points to lead Oklahoma past Western Michigan 72-60 in a first-round game of the All-College tourney in Oklahoma City. Anthony Johnson's 12 points led Wyoming past St. Francis, N.Y. 59-52 in the other half of Thursday night's doubleheader.

Carpenter Questionable After Suffering Sprained Ankle In Oilers Practice

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

The Houston Oilers are still knocking them down left and right...only it's their own team that's being knocked down. Already hurt by three key injuries, the Oilers suffered another blow Thursday when running back Rob Carpenter tripped over a blocking dummy, sprained his ankle and was reported as "questionable" for Saturday's National Football League playoff game against San Diego.

Carpenter's mishap came on top of injuries to running star Earl Campbell, quarterback Dan Pastorini and receiver Ken Burroughs in last week's 13-7 victory over Denver. All three players are doubtful starters with groin strains.

Carpenter's injury left only three healthy running backs on the Oilers' depth chart: starting fullback Tim Wilson and little-used Ronnie Coleman and Boobie Clark. By comparison, the Chargers are relatively healthy for the second-round American Conference test at San Diego, one of four NFL playoff games scheduled for this weekend. In a National Conference game Saturday, it's Philadelphia at Tampa Bay.

Two more games will be played on Sunday — Miami at Pittsburgh in the AFC and Los Angeles at Dallas in the NFC.

Both Houston and Philadelphia won wild-card games last week. The winners this weekend advance to the conference championship games scheduled for Sunday.

Hawks' Bench Sparks Victory Over Houston

By The Associated Press The Atlanta Hawks hit you with everything, including the bench.

"They're the type of team that can get a good night out of anybody," said Houston's Rick Barry, "and this is what happened for them tonight."

They called in the reserves Thursday night, and they helped the Hawks to a 112-110 National Basketball Association victory over the Rockets.

"I thought that the unit we had on the floor for the last six minutes of the game did an outstanding job for us," said Atlanta Coach Hubie Brown.

That included Eddie Johnson, who scored 20 points, including the winning jump shot with three seconds left.

"Not only did they bring it back," said Brown, "but they brought it back with execution, good passing, good defense and moved the ball on Jan. 6. The Super Bowl, matching the conference winners, will be played in Pasadena, Calif., on Sunday, Jan. 20.

Owing to their recent streak of injuries, the Oilers are seven-point underdogs to the high-powered Chargers, the AFC West champions led by quarterback Dan Fouts. The Chargers' receiving corps is a bit under the weather, with John Jefferson and Charley Joiner both nursing minor injuries. Both are listed as probable starters, though running back Mike Thomas may miss the game because of the flu.

Philadelphia has been installed as a four-point favorite over Tampa Bay. Bucs quarterback Doug Williams sees the game as a tossup.

"We have Ricky Bell, they have Wilbert Montgomery," he said. "They have a good tight end, like we do. They have a good defense, a good three-man front and linebackers who are strong and quick, like ours, plus a strong secondary."

The Philadelphia-Tampa Bay game renews a coaching rivalry between the Eagles' Dick Vermeil and the Bucs' John McKay. They previously met when Vermeil was coaching at UCLA and McKay at Southern Cal.

Pittsburgh is a 9 1/2-point choice over Miami and Dallas is favored by eight over Los Angeles in Sunday's games.

Dallas beat Los Angeles 28-0 in the NFC title game last year. The Cowboys also routed the Rams 37-7 in 1975 and bumped them out of the playoffs with a 27-16 victory in 1973.

Bullets 117, Bucks 108

Greg Ballard scored a career-high 27 points to pace Washington over Milwaukee. Ballard, starting his fourth consecutive NBA game in place of the injured Bobby Dandridge, sank 10 of 17 shots and grabbed 13 rebounds.

Cavaliers 125, Knicks 110

Mike Mitchell poured in 34 points, 12 in a pivotal third-quarter rally, to spark Cleveland over New York. Campy Russell added 24 points and Randy Smith 23 for the Cavaliers, who have won 13 of their last 14 home games.

Anderson Leaving, Suspension Of Two Freshmen

Hall Feels Recent Actions Can Unify Team

By CHARLES WOLFE Associated Press Writer LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky basketball Coach Joe Hall says his suspension of two star freshmen and the departure of sophomore starting guard Dwight Anderson could unify his young team.

"Normally, an action like this will bring a team together and they will feel like any existing problems that they have had have been aired and dealt with," Hall said in a news conference called Thursday to announce the suspensions.

"In occasions like this, we just call on the remaining players to give a little extra effort. If that's not enough, we just can't be helped," he said. Suspended were Sam Bowie, a 7-foot-1 starting center, and guard Dirk Minniefield, the team's leading assist man. Hall said both will be on the bench Saturday when No. 2 Kentucky takes on No. 3 Notre Dame in Freedom Hall at Louisville.

Hall said the suspensions were "for violation of well-established training rules," but would not elaborate further. He also denied Anderson's leaving was related to the suspensions.

"I have heard everything possible that could be mentioned and I will not address myself to any rumors," Hall said. "I will not deny or support any rumors. I will not be more specific." Hall said he learned of Anderson's decision in a private meeting.

"I listened to him," Hall said. "He had made his decision and I accepted it, for his reasons."

Asked why he would not confirm or deny reports of the suspensions Wednesday, Hall said he had not made his decision at that time.

"With the upcoming game and in the interest of my players, I wanted to give it full consideration and I wanted to investigate all the angles," he said.

"I wanted to talk to the squad about the discipline because it affects them as well as the players being suspended. We have a program in which discipline plays a major role...and I am of the opinion that the actions that I have taken today will assist the program in the future."

Three years ago, Hall cited training violations in suspending starters Mike Phillips, Truman Claytor and Jay Shidler from UK's annual invitational tournament. The Wildcats, unbeaten and third-ranked at the time, were upset by Utah in the title game.

Kentucky eventually lost to North Carolina in the NCAA East Regional finals and Hall said later his team never regained its tenacity after the suspensions. The Wildcats this year are off to a 10-1 start, thanks in part to bench strength. The losses of Anderson, Bowie and Minniefield greatly depleted that strength for Saturday's game, but Hall said his action was irreversible.

"It is not a tough decision to discipline. It creates tough problems sometimes, but it still has to be dealt with," Hall said. "The decision itself was obvious. The only regret I have is those players that were not involved in the infractions are being penalized somewhat by not having the services of these players against Notre Dame, but they understand this."

AN INVESTMENT
IN YOUR FUTURE

HEY,
EVERYBODY

...Happy New Year!

Somewhere we always associate the New Year with youth. Such an association is natural. It is logical because both the baby and the New Year are beginning a life of their very own. Of course these youngsters eagerly greet the New Year, while the not so young try to stay the same age. But the New Year comes for all of us to give us a chance to rid ourselves of old problems that disturb our peace of mind.

New Year is for the aged too. But there is little to distinguish New Year for them. Their days, weeks and years all seem to run together. But the rest of us do need their wisdom.

New Year time is high time that we spend more time seeing that our older citizens have a good time along with our young folk. Let everybody sing Auld Lang Syne this New Year, with new meaning, as we say Happy New Year to all.

Afgan President Ousted, Executed In Coup On Friday

By The Associated Press
Afgan President Hafizullah Amin was reported ousted and executed in a bloody coup launched by Soviet forces battling to get their man in power in Kabul and end a threatening Moslem insurrection on Russia's southern border. There were signs the new leader, Babrak Karmal, will conduct large-scale purges.

The airport in Kabul, the Afghan capital where thousands of Soviet troops were flown in over the past few days, was believed closed, so there was no immediate way for correspondents to confirm reports of active Russian fighting to take over the presidential palace and radio station Thursday night.

But witnesses said in telephone calls to diplomats in New Delhi, India, the Russians fought Afghan troops guarding Radio Kabul, knocked out two Afghan tanks, captured the complex and took soldiers prisoner in 3½ hours of battles that ended at 11 p.m. with MiG-21 warplanes criss-crossing the skies.

They described Kabul as quiet but tense today with morning traffic resuming unimpeded by Russian soldiers who were seen throughout the mile-high Afghan capital.

"It was the largest Soviet troop movement outside Eastern Europe since World War II," one source said of the influx of Russian troops. "You can see it almost as a Soviet invasion of Afghanistan — taking Kabul and then putting their man in power."

Karmal was immediately declared Afghanistan's president and general secretary of the central committee of the ruling Khalq Party and named his cronies to important positions.

The coup was the third in 20 months in the landlocked, mountainous Central Asian nation that borders Moslem fundamentalist Iran on the west, and for the moment it entrenched Karmal, a former deputy premier variously described by Western diplomats as a Soviet "puppet" or "stooge."

Amin, the man he replaced, also was a pro-Soviet communist who grabbed power in a palace shootout in September that killed his pro-Soviet predecessor, Nur Mohammed Taraki. But Radio Kabul said Amin was executed almost immediately after Thursday's coup on orders of a revolutionary tribunal for "crimes against the people of Afghanistan."

The broadcast also said members of Amin's family were killed and that those "responsible for crimes committed against the people by members of Amin's fascist regime will be brought to justice," indicating bloody, mass purges will take place in the next few days in the Afghan capital.

Although Soviet troops were already in Afghanistan in force, Radio Kabul said after the coup that the Kremlin swiftly agreed to meet an urgent appeal from Karmal's new government for "political, moral, economic and military assistance...to restore normalcy and to repel an external threat."

Western diplomatic sources said the "external threat" probably reflected Kabul and Moscow's claim that the Moslem rebels in Afghanistan's 20-month-old civil war are backed by Pakistan, China and the United States, and that Amin and his men were "agents of U.S. imperialism."

U.S. officials in Washington estimated that the Soviet Union airlifted 200 plane-loads of soldiers into Kabul this week and that Soviet military strength in Afghanistan had reached 10,000 troops, about double the number previously believed in the Central Asian nation.

A recent U.S. intelligence appraisal said although Amin welcomed Soviet help in putting down Afghanistan's Moslem rebels he wanted his nation to remain a truly independent state, and that this led to strained relations between Moscow and Kabul in recent months.

The Soviets are widely believed to have fostered the April 1978 coup that ousted Afghanistan's non-aligned government and brought Taraki to power, and they are reported determined to prevent the Moslem rebels from ousting an atheist Marxist regime on Russia's doorstep.

Moslems are expected to make up a majority of the Soviet population within the next 25 years, and the Russians apparently fear if the Moslems in Afghanistan and Iran have their way there will be a "ripple effect" of unrest among restive Soviet Moslems.

Diplomatic sources describe the man the Russians hand-picked to run the new Kabul regime as soft-spoken and a firm friend of the Kremlin. They said Karmal is in his 50s and is the son of an Afghan army general.

An Asian diplomat familiar with Afghanistan's politics, said Karmal is closer to Soviet leaders than Amin was but probably would be more willing to modify the Marxist economics Amin was forcing on the country.

Karmal was known to diplomats as a Marxist in 1966, when as a member of the Afghanistan parliament he was involved in a fight that landed him in the hospital.

His Parch Party was the only Marxist group that supported the 1973 overthrow of King Zahir Shah by non-aligned President Mohammed Daoud, but his followers joined forces with Taraki when Daoud banned political parties in 1977.

HERE'S HEALTH

By DR. BRYAN THACKER

Too many victims of severe back trouble believe that time will heal the condition. They endure the excruciating pains, trying not to move in ways that may trigger it. They may not even realize that chiropractic could correct the condition and provide real relief.

When spinal segments become misaligned, the nerves they shelter can be pinched and irritated. Unless corrected, this condition can progress into sciatica, organic disturbances or even various forms of paralysis.

Don't wait and suffer. Let chiropractic determine and treat the cause of your pain. Phone for an appointment, today.

Ten Prisoners Die In Fire At Jail 2 Weeks Before Closing

By THOMAS C. COTHRAN
Associated Press Writer
LANCASTER, S.C. (AP) — While inmates yelled for help behind locked doors, a fire sent smoke billowing through a 156-year-old county jail, killing 10 prisoners two weeks before the building was scheduled to be closed.

Only three prisoners survived the fire Thursday night on the second floor of the Lancaster County Jail, a white, two-story masonry structure designed by the architect who planned the Washington Monument, authorities said.

The county was scheduled to move the jail and offices of the sheriff's department in two weeks to a new building on the outskirts of Lancaster, officials added.

Two inmates and a firefighter were hospitalized with smoke inhalation. Inmate Roy Dunlap was in critical condition, and inmate Ralph Cole and firefighter Joe Murphy were in satisfactory condition, said Alice Haddox, spokeswoman at Elliott White Springs Memorial Hospital.

Capt. J. Leon Gasque, assistant director of the State Law Enforcement Division, said investigators had not determined how the fire started. "We have some suspicions but I'd rather not say more at this point."

Hugh Munn, a division spokesman, said the jailer, L.C. McAteer, and a highway patrolman, L.N. Alexander, were on the second floor with the 13 inmates when the fire broke out about 6:15 p.m.

The two officers and Cole, a trusty who was downstairs, smelled smoke and ran to open the jail doors. Munn said Cole opened one of two doors to the cellblock, but was unable to open the other door, which may have been blocked by the body of an unconscious inmate.

While Cole was trying to unlock the second door, he heard the men inside calling for help, Munn said. The heavy smoke filled the jail and forced Cole and the officers to retreat.

The cause of death for the 10 who did not escape was undetermined, "but it looks like smoke inhalation," Gasque said. Autopsies were scheduled at the University of South Carolina in Charleston.

The jail was one of a number of South Carolina buildings designed by Robert Mills, a Charleston, S.C., architect who was later named architect of public buildings in Washington, D.C., by President Andrew Jackson.

The sheriff said the jail is heated by an oil furnace on the first floor and the prisoners sleep on cotton mattresses.

Mrs. Ford Named Drive Chairman

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. Wendell H. Ford has been named honorary chairman of the March of Dimes Mothers' March in the Owensboro area, chapter spokeswoman said Thursday.

Katie Griffith, the spokeswoman for the Green River chapter, said the annual neighbor-to-neighbor campaign to fight birth defects will be held Jan. 13-20.

A goal of about $7,000 has been set for the Owensboro area, she said. More than $4,000 was collected during the campaign last year.

★ At The Movies ★

(Reviews Of Current Movies At Murray Theatres)
By KENT FORRESTER

'Black Hole' Beats 'Star Trek'

In its first attempt at a space fantasy, the Disney Studio has out-trekked Roddenberry and the rest of the Star Trek Crew.

THE BLACK HOLE, now playing at Cheri 3, is a better movie than STAR TREK in almost every way: It has more convincing special effects, a more exciting plot, more competent acting, and more interesting "creatures."

The plot concerns an evil monomaniacal scientist (played by Maximilian Schell), who wants to plunge his ship into a black hole to find the "ultimate secrets" of the universe.

I might as well tell you now. You will get to see the inside of a black hole. I'm not going to tell you what is in there, but I will confess that I can't figure out what it means (but then, I didn't understand the ending of 2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY either).

THE BLACK HOLE is a robot-lover's paradise. The evil professor's high-tech spaceship is filled with androids (a human-robot synthesis), storm trooper robots (remember STAR WARS), a huge dark robot (remember STAR WARS again), a robot with a Southern accent (I think that's Slim Pickens' voice), and, in place of the usual loveable and cute Disney animal, there is V.I.N.C.E.N.T., a lovable and cute robot. V.I.N.C.E.N.T. spouts as many clichés as Howard Cosell (in a tense moment, he echoes the sentiments of every football announcer who has ever held a microphone that "a good defense is the best offense"), but he is far more literate. (He quotes a line from John Milton's poem, "When I Consider How My Light Is Spent.") When the cute, lovable, plucky V.I.N.C.E.N.T. defeats the dark and evil robot, the audience at the performance I attended broke into a round of applause. No one applauded the human characters.

Smoking Linked To Decline In Sexual Desire

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Ibrahim B. Syed, University of Louisville professor of clinical medicine, says he believes smoking lessens sexual desire, and thinks that could make more people stop than the health hazards involved.

"If you tell people who smoke that they'll die of cancer unless they stop, they won't listen to you. But if you tell them they'll lose their sexual capabilities, they'll pay attention," Syed said in a news release issued by the university.

Smokers take carbon monoxide into their lungs, which reduces the blood's oxygen supply, and reduces the amount of the male hormone testosterone in a male's blood and the amount of the female hormone estrogen in a female's blood, Syed said. He said that means less sexual desire.

Carroll Disappointed That Funding For Arts Center Stopped By Administration

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Former Gov. Julian Carroll said he was "extremely disappointed and surprised" that Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. was able to stop the sale of notes for the Kentucky Center for the Arts.

The center, to be built in downtown Louisville, was to cost $35 million, but Brown put a $23.5 million lid on the project.

Carroll said Thursday, he was assured by a state bond attorney before leaving office that everything was in order for the state's sale of $7.4 million in notes to start construction.

But Finance Secretary George Atkins, with Brown's approval, last week refused to sign supporting documents, thus stopping the sale.

Brown's release of the $23.5 million is contingent upon Louisville putting up $2.5 million for a parking garage, doubling of the local hotel-motel room tax to offset the center's operating cost and proof that a substantial endowment fund will be set up to support the center.

Carroll said that, in many respects, he is sympathetic with Brown's actions, but he said he doesn't think Brown's approach is better than his was.

"I recognize that he is approaching his budget very cautiously," Carroll said of Brown. "Indeed he wants to make certain the arts center works well."

Carroll said he didn't believe Brown's motivations for proposing a new financing plan were political. And he said, "Frankly, I am disappointed that I never got more support out of local government."

But, Carroll said he has concerns about Brown's proposal. Carroll said he feared that any further delay would drive the center's cost even higher. He said Brown's proposed increase in the local motel room tax to support the center might hurt local tourism.

The tax proposal also has drawn fire from the Kentucky Hotel-Motel Association and the Greater Louisville Hotel-Motel Association.

Les Nichols, KHMA executive director, said he believes that state law authorizing the room tax specifies that the revenue can be used only for promoting conventions, tourism and travel.

Nichols said he isn't sure that doubling the tax from 3 percent to 6 percent for the arts center would be legal.

He also said the Louisville hotel industry probably would be "very unhappy with...the possibility of losing business to other cities."

A spokesman for Jefferson County Judge Mitch McConnell said Thursday that the judge is committed to passing the local tax-increase package if the state legislature authorizes it.

State law limits the tax to 3 percent. Any increase beyond that limit must be approved by the General Assembly.

Louisville Mayor William Stansbury said the city has hired a consultant to study whether the city should sell the $2.5 million in bond for the center's garage.

"I'm hopeful the center will be built. But we must see the figures first," Stansbury said.

In other action, Atkins said Brown expects to name the 10 members of the center's new management corporation governing board after Louisville civic leaders set up a board of directors to administer the endowment fund.

State To Investigate Princeton Police Force

PRINCETON, Ky. (AP) — Caldwell County Commonwealth's Attorney Bill Cunningham says the state attorney general has been asked to name a special prosecutor to study allegations concerning the Princeton Police Department.

"If there are any charges, that will be a determination of the special prosecutor," he said.

Cunningham did not reveal what the allegations involved. He said only that an assistant commonwealth's attorney received information in February involving alleged misconduct by members of the city police force and that the commonwealth's attorney's office and state police have been investigating.

"If there are any charges, they may involve more than one person," he said, but he added that he would not release further information which would jeopardize fair and impartial proceedings.

Minnesota High Court Says Number Won't Do For Name

By GERRY NELSON
Associated Press Writer
ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The number 1069 is not acceptable, but One Zero Six Nine might be OK, the Minnesota Supreme Court ruled today in denying a Minneapolis man's legal bid to be named a number.

Michael Herbert Dengler, a former social studies teacher, has been calling himself 1069 for five years, saying the numerals have "personal significance" and relate to his philosophy of life.

He got his bank, the Social Security Administration and several state agencies to recognize him as 1069, which he pronounces as One Zero Six Nine.

But a utility company and the Minnesota Drivers' License Division wouldn't go along unless the numeral had court approval, and two years ago Dengler filed suit seeking a legal name change. Two years before that, he was rebuffed by the North Dakota Supreme Court.

In its unanimous ruling, the Minnesota Supreme Court said Dengler is free to call himself 1069 as a common-law right, but noted the American social and economic system is geared to identifying individuals by letters rather than numbers.

"If he chooses to adopt a name which simply subjects himself to contempt, ridicule and inconvenience, he has a common law and statutory right to do so," said Justice James Otis for the Supreme Court.

In suggesting a spelled-out number, such as One Zero Six Nine, the court said in a footnote that the first and last words would be phonetically the same as a name such as "Juan Nyen."

The court upheld a February 1978 decision by District Court Judge Donald Barbeau, who said it would be "dehumanizing" for any person to be known only by number. The judge likened it to the numbers tattooed on prisoners in World War II concentration camps.

To allow a legal name change to a number "would hasten the day in which we all become lost in a faceless number," Barbeau said, also quoting from Shakespeare: "Who steals my purse steals trash... He that filches from me my good name robs me of that which makes me poor indeed."

Dengler, divorced with two children living with their mother, is described in court records as a naturalized citizen, born in Germany. He was not available for comment on today's ruling.

In arguments before Barbeau in October 1977, Dengler's attorney, Stefan Tolin, said his client lost his teaching job in Fargo, N.D., because of the name issue. Since then, Dengler, who at the time of the arguments was working as a cook in a Minneapolis restaurant, had applied for jobs in economics and banking, but had been summarily rejected because he called himself 1069, Tolin said.

The Supreme Court said Dengler, as 1069, could seek redress in the courts if any "substantial right" is refused him because of his numeral name.

Up to now, Otis said, he has suffered only "trivial and self-inflicted inconvenience."

Auto Companies Say Layoffs Inevitable Early Next Year

By The Associated Press
Officials of automobile-related companies in two Kentucky cities say layoffs or production cutbacks will result early next year from slow sales in the industry.

The Dura Corp. plant in Paris will lay off most of its employees for the month of January, a company spokesman said Thursday.

And in Louisville, a spokesman for Ford Motor Co. said Wednesday that Ford's scheduled 41 percent production cutback for the next quarter will have a sharp impact at the company's LTD assembly plant.

William Locke, general manager of the Dura Corp. plant which manufactures automotive components and service parts, said most of the plant's 350 employees would be laid off, but declined to be more specific.

Locke said the company's action resulted from conditions in the auto industry, and that the temporary layoffs are needed to "properly position us for 1980."

Locke said the company will reopen in February, and that Dura Corp. officials will evaluate the market at that time to see if any further action is needed.

In Louisville, meanwhile, the results of Ford's production cutback "could mean uncertain times in 1980," for about 1,350 hourly employees.

The employees at the Fern Valley Road plant were out of work about 40 percent of the time this year, although they drew up to 95 percent of their base pay in supplemental checks. An entire shift of 1,400 employees was shut down in February.

"There is obviously going to be a down time in LTD passenger-car production," said Hayes Holmes, Ford's public relations official in Atlanta. He declined to predict the number of weeks.

Frank Howe, president of United Auto Workers Local 862, said the news came as no surprise.

"We've been told the projected schedule is going to be like it's been the last quarter," Howe said, adding there has been speculation about cutbacks at the plant for more than a year.

During layoff periods, workers receive up to 95 percent of their net salaries, depending on seniority. Howe said the layoff fund, maintained nationally, is at a "safe level."

"Right now, we're just trying to wait and see," he said.

Ford had counted heavily on the LTD in 1979, believing that America's love of the big car would not end. But 1979 LTD sales not only fell below the 500,000 the company predicted, but even under the 350,000 sold the preceding year.

"The problem" started with the Iranian oil crisis in February," Holmes said. Primarily because of concerns over gasoline consumption, small cars are now outselling large cars for the first time on a sustained basis, he said.

Ford officials, at their automobile show last September, said they expect the trend to continue.

Bird Roost Near Homes In Bowling Green Quarantined

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — A six-to-10-acre bird roost bordering a residential area of Bowling Green has been placed under quarantine by local health officials.

The action followed a test by the state which showed the presence of histoplasmosis, which prompt the development of the lung disease histoplasmosis. The test was conducted in early November by Dr. Ted Pass of the state's mycology center at Morehead.

Charles Hume, Bowling Green-Warren County health administrator, said the quarantine is immediate and is the only effective method known of handling a "positive" roost.

If the land is left undisturbed, Hume said, the effects of the spread of the histoplasmosis can be limited.

The heavily wooded roost area borders a subdivision and a trailer park and is frequently used by children for a playground. Signs advising of the quarantine will be posted in the area, Hume said.

Swine Show and Sale

On Jan. 10, 11, and 12, the Southeastern Spotted Type Conference show and sale will be sponsored by the National Spotted Swine Record, Inc. The check in time will be 9 a.m. on Jan. 10. The show will begin at 8 a.m. on Jan. 11; and the sale will start at 11 a.m. on Jan. 12. The show and sale will be held in the West Kentucky Livestock and Exposition Center at Murray State University. No admission will be charged and the public is invited to attend.

Some 1,000 years ago, Cahokia was the largest city in what is now the United States.

Deaths and Funerals

Funeral Is Today For Mrs. Lois Bray

Funeral services for Mrs. Lois Hendon Bray are being held today at 2 p.m. at the chapel of the Max Churchill Funeral Home with the Rev. R. J. Burpoe officiating. The Grace Baptist Church Choir, led by Dan Billington, with Dwayne Jones as organist, is providing the music.

Don, Max, and Kenith Bray, Eugene Rowland, Noah Garland, and Bob Wilson, grandsons, are serving as pallbearers. Burial will follow in the Elm Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Bray, 81, died Wednesday. She was pronounced dead on arrival at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital after having been stricken ill at her home at South Side Manor. Her husband, Galon Bray, died in 1969.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Bub Garland, and one son, Noble Bray, both of Murray, eight grandchildren, and 10 great grandchildren.

Presbyterians To Hear Rev. Rabatin Speak Here Sunday

"Receiving" will be the theme of the worship service at First Presbyterian Church, located at 16th and Main Streets on Sunday, Dec. 30. The Pastor, the Rev. R. E. Rabatin, will preach on "A Time For Receiving."

Church School classes for all ages will meet in their regularly assigned rooms and will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Worship will begin at 10:45 a.m. The Anthem will be performed by Ann Gregory. Guest Choir Director, Leanne Martin will lead the choir, while Beth Braboy serves as organist.

A nursery is available for both Church School and worship services.

The church office will be closed on Dec. 31, and Jan. 1, to observe the New Year. Activities for January include a Congregational Care Committee meeting on Jan. 2 at 3:30 p.m., and the Session meeting at the church on Jan. 9, at 7:30 p.m.

Singspiration Will Be Held At Church

The annual Singspiration of the Northside Church of Christ, Housman Street, Mayfield, will be held Monday, Dec. 31, from 8:30 a.m. to 12 midnight.

Gary Knuckles and Jerry Mayes will be the featured speakers, according to a church spokesman who invites the public to attend.

Mrs. Myrtie Conner Dies Today; Rites Scheduled Sunday

Mrs. Myrtie Conner died today at 1:30 a.m. at the Parkview Convalescent Center, Paducah. She was 90 years of age.

The deceased, a retired school teacher, was a member of the Olivet Baptist Church, Paducah, and of the Hardin Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star. Born April 25, 1880, in Marshall County, she was the daughter of the late Samuel T. Ross and Virginia Hartley Ross.

Mrs. Conner is survived by one son, Adrian Conner, Paducah Route 7, one granddaughter, Mrs. William H. McConnell, Hopkinsville, and one great grandchild.

The funeral will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the chapel of the Linn Funeral Home, Benton, with the Rev. Albert Johnson and the Rev. David McMichael officiating.

Pallbearers will be Henry Baumer, Jr., Joe Edwards, James Edwards, Jessie Edwards, Noel McEllya, and Clifton McEllya. Burial will follow in the Wilson Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 11 a.m. Saturday.

Rev. Blankenship Will Speak Sunday

Morning Worship at South Pleasant Grove United Methodist Church will begin Sunday, Dec. 30, at 10:45 a.m. The sermon by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Paul Blankenship, will be entitled "The Truth That Makes Us Free."

As a part of the observance of Student Recognition Sunday, college-age young adults from the congregation will assist in leading the worship service.

The choir, directed by Mrs. Lurine Cooper, will sing "Go Tell It On the Mountain" with Mrs. Olivene Erwin as organist and Tommy Gaines as pianist.

Sunday School will begin at 9:45 a.m., evening worship at 6:00 p.m., and Youth Fellowship at 6:45 p.m.

Finance Secretary Atkins Says U Of L Arena Still Possibility

FRANKFORT (AP) — State Finance Secretary George Atkins says a proposed basketball arena for the University of Louisville is still a possibility.

"It is not a dead project. It is not being shelved. Certainly the possibility exists for funding," Atkins said Thursday.

Gov. John Y. Brown has authorized a 14-member committee to study the project, including "the possibility of improving Freedom Hall where U of L plays its home basketball games."

The arena project was believed to be in jeopardy last week after consultants put a $48.9 million price tag on it.

Last week Atkins said that the consultants' figure seemed like an enormous sum considering how state officials were "trying to cut $1,000 here, and $10,000 there."

And Brown said earlier that the arena might be more appropriate in four or five years after several other downtown projects are finished. He also talked in terms of $15 million or $20 million as enough for any new arena.

Atkins said Thursday that his and Brown's earlier statements were still valid. He said that $50 million "is a lot of money. What John is asking is to look at some alternatives. There is a distinct possibility that the arena won't be built in the next two years because of a tight budget. That doesn't mean that the project is dead."

Before leaving office two weeks ago former Gov. Julian Carroll named an 11-member committee to study the need for the arena and how it might be financed.

Brown recently added three people to the panel and gave it a list of questions he wants answered, Atkins said.

A Wallace "Skip" Grafton, who is heading the committee, said the committee hopes to report to Brown within six months on three options: renovating Freedom Hall, building an arena on Louisville's Belknap Campus and building an arena downtown.

Grafton, also chairman of U of L's Board of Trustees, said the committee will review the consultants' report. He said he is skeptical that a downtown arena would cost nearly $50 million. He said he was thinking in terms of $20 to $25 million.

"Brown directed the committee to study the whole thing and to forget what has gone on," Grafton said. "He is starting off saying, 'My mind is blank, you convince me.'"

He said the governor has "not said at what figure he might look at favorably." The governor has agreed to pay for

ABC Renews Accusations On Elvis Presley's Death

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — ABC television has renewed accusations that Elvis Presley's 1977 death was drug-related and that there has been an official coverup concerning the death.

In an update of the network's investigation into Presley's death, correspondent Gerald Rivera reported Thursday night on the ABC-News program "20-20" that Presley's father was told two months after Elvis' death that his son died of drug interaction.

According to Rivera, the information came from Dr. Jerry Francisco, Shelby County medical examiner. But two days after his purported conversation with Vernon Presley, Francisco issued a news release which denied drugs played any role in Presley's death, Rivera said.

Elvis Presley died Aug. 16, 1977, at his Graceland mansion and an autopsy was performed the same day at Baptist Hospital. The report has never been made public, although Francisco told reporters the 42-year-old singer died of hypertensive heart disease.

Sunday And Monday Services Planned At Sinking Spring

The Rev. Billy Turner, pastor of the Sinking Spring Baptist Church, will speak at the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. worship services on Sunday, Dec. 30, at the church.

"The Year When Jesus Comes" will be the selection to be sung by the Church Choir at the morning service. Tommy Scott is director of music with Susie Scott as pianist and Patsy Neale as organist.

Ronnie Walker, deacon of the week, will assist in the services.

Sunday School with Jim Neale as superintendent will be at 10 a.m. and Church Training with Randy Herndon as director will be at 6 p.m.

A Watch Night Service will be held Monday, Dec. 31, starting at 8 p.m. A film, "The Enemy," will be shown and the Rev. Charles Blair will be the speaker. Special singing will be held, and the public is invited to attend, a church spokesman said.

New Years' Eve Party To Be Held At Country Club

A New Year's Eve party and dance will be held at the Murray Country Club from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Dec. 31-Jan. 1. All club members and their out-of-town guests are invited to attend.

Music will be furnished by Dan Steele and his seven-piece orchestra. The band plays a variety of music including rock, disco, old standards, modern country and even Latin tunes.

Party favors including hats and noise-makers will be included so members and guests may welcome 1980 in style.

Chairmen of the event are Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cohoon. Committee members include Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fandrich, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Polly, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Adkins, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Grogan, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Knight and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brannon.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

By The Associated Press
TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Moslem militants occupying the U.S. Embassy denied reports today that seven American hostages had been transferred from the compound to a maximum security jail. The official Pars news agency also denied distributing the report.

First word that Pars was carrying the report came from the NBC-TV correspondent in Tehran, who said Pars got its information from the French news agency, Agence France Presse.

The French news agency dispatch came from Chartres, France, and quoted a French legislator just returned from Tehran as saying the hostages had been transferred to Tehran's Evvin Prison, probably for health reasons.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran's foreign minister angrily demanded spy trials for the U.S. hostages if America pushes for U.N. sanctions against his country. At least 10 of the captives were reported rebelling against their captors, and there was no sign their jailers would free any of them.

The United States has interpreted every Iranian "good gesture" as a sign of weakness," Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh told reporters Thursday night.

WASHINGTON (AP) — It could hardly have been coincidental that the reported coup in Afghanistan followed a dramatic buildup of Soviet troops, including combat forces, according to U.S. analysts. Officials said the Russians apparently were instrumental in ousting a nationalist-minded communist leader Thursday in Afghanistan in favor of another Marxist who "will be in lockstep with the Soviets."

WASHINGTON (AP) — An appeals court has cleared the way for the deportation of some Iranian students as part of America's retaliation for the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. But a lawyer for three students who challenged President Carter's order singling out Iranians for immigration checks says he will carry the fight to the Supreme Court unless he gets a rehearing.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — An eight-day work slowdown by city firefighters claimed its first casualty when a newly completed, unoccupied $5.5 million retirement home was destroyed by fire hours after National Guard troops were called in to help man fire stations. The blaze Thursday night forced temporary evacuation of about 100 residents of a nearby nursing home, but no one was injured.

WESTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Ned Ackerman watched his twin-masted dream vanishing into the ocean mists as foul winds and heavy seas sought to push the John F. Leavitt, the nation's first sailing cargo ship in 40 years, beneath the waves. The 97-foot wooden schooner was making its first working voyage Thursday, carrying a load of lumber and tanning chemicals from Quincy, Mass., to Haiti.

Cincinnati City Officials Hope Problem Solved

CINCINNATI (AP) — City officials say they hope they've eliminated two potential causes of trouble which they believe developed prior to a rock concert on Dec. 3 at which 11 persons were killed.

A crowd rushing to get unassigned seats and an inability to control the situation have been cited as reasons for the deaths before the concert by "The Who" at Riverfront Coliseum. The 11 were trampled during a surge by the crowd.

City Council on Thursday approved emergency ordinances banning festival, or general admission, seating, except in "specific instances, and giving police more authority in similar circumstances."

It has appeared that festival seating is one of the root causes of what happened," said Vice Mayor David Mann, who introduced the ordinances. "Eliminating festival seating is an important step."

The ordinance covers halls with capacities of 2,000 or more, and does not apply to school athletic events, religious events, or events specifically exempted by the city's safety director.

Actor Tognazzi Startled After Being Recognized By Female

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Recently after shopping at Bloomingdale's in New York City, Ugo Tognazzi was startled when a female stranger recognized him, threw her arms around him and planted a kiss.

"I don't know whether she thought I was a homosexual or a heterosexual," said the actor. Either way, he was pleased.

The woman's reaction seems typical of fans of "La Cage aux Folles," a French-Italian confection that has been marking up amazing business in America's theaters. The latest figure from United Artists is $5 million in only 70 playdates. A 360-seat Manhattan theater grossed almost $900,000 in 30 weeks, claiming a new record for a foreign-language film. The world-wide gross: $35.7 million, with many markets scarcely touched.

The plot seems to translate into laughs in any language. It concerns a pair of middle-aged homosexuals who operate a transvestite nightclub in St. Tropez. The son of one of them brings his bride-to-be and her straight-laced parents for a getacquainted dinner. Why the success of "La Cage" (also called "Birds of a Feather")?

"First of all, it's a lot of fun," theorized Tognazzi, who plays Renato, the boy's father. "Secondly, because of the fun, the audience is liberated from prejudices they normally would have."

The Cremona-born actor admitted he had concern about how homosexuals would react to the film. Several years ago he had portrayed a transvestite entertainer as a marginal, tormented member of society. The film was attacked by homosexuals.

"As soon as it opened in Italy, the homosexuals were ready to campaign against it," said Tognazzi. "Not only did they like it. The president of their organization appeared on television with me and said it was sympathetic to their members."

Ugo Tognazzi, without the mustache and grayed hair, looks younger than the film, also younger than his 57 years. He resembles a Roman Darren McGavin, if that's possible. He has had three wives and each has bore him a son; he also has a daughter by his present wife.

Until "La Cage," most of his 120 films have been aimed at the Italian audience. Although he is one of Italy's most important stars, he admitted that he is not the highest-paid. The reason: "I refuse

Love Keeping Them Together

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Love is still keeping them together — and together they're still on the record charts — but Tom Temille and Daryl Dragon are embarked on an all-out effort to widen their individual careers beyond the narrow confines of the Top 40.

"I just think the record business is too damn fickle," says Miss Temille — Mrs. Dragon, if you prefer.

"I'm telling you, if you don't pop those hit records out like hotcakes, if you don't have one for six or seven months..."

"Good-bye," interjects Captain & Temille, as the Dragons are known to millions.

Their latest release, "Do That To Me One More Time," was in the Top 10 and still climbing when they were interviewed recently at their rambling Pacific Palisades home — a sweatshirt, he in his usual nautical cap.

Promise Of Television In The 70's Could Be Gone In The 80's

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 1970s arrived with a bright promise for television.

The New Morality reached the home screen and more mature themes were explored. Simple-minded rural comedies were swept aside to make room for relevant comedy. Mary Tyler Moore was our princess and Archie Bunker was our clown prince.

It was the decade of Prime Time Access, the Family Hour, "Sesame Street," and the mini-series. "Roots" and "Holocaust" illuminated the screen with their special brilliance.

The western rode off into the sunset and the variety show shuffled off the stage. Cop shows expended more ammunition than World War II.

The look of the '70s is that, unless "Sheriff Lobo" is your favorite show, you'd better get yourself a cable or pay television, or buy a video cassette or video disc machine. The quality and diversity so long talked about may be coming — but at a price.

Here is a look at the '70s and '80s from some of television's most important imagemakers:

Grant Tinker ("Mary Tyler Moore Show," "Lou Grant"): "As we came into the decade with Norman Lear's shows and maybe a couple of ours, you had reason to be optimistic about television growing up and doing something worthwhile. As we go into the '80s I, at least, despair, because that's not happening. On the contrary. Those few things that did seem worthwhile and seem to be growing are just falling by the wayside.

"You don't know whether to blame it on Fred Silverman or the audience. The truth is, I guess, you can't blame it on both since the audience is watching those shows. In the '80s it looks like 'Sheriff Lobo' and 'Dallas.' I don't see pay or cable or cassettes making a dent early in the '80s. Who knows, when we splinter off those few people who would watch something better, then we'll really have three networks full of garbage. It may be wall-to-wall garbage."

Leonard Goldberg ("Charlie's Angels," "Family"): "If someone told me 10 years ago that the CBS news show '60 Minutes' would be the highest-rated prime-time show I would have asked them what they were smoking. Or ABC's '20-20' getting over a 30 share. I think the audience is trying to tell us that they're interested in more intelligent programming than the networks think they are. 'The networks will have competition from other sources of home entertainment, and unless they become cognizant of that and start doing intelligent programming I think they're going to find that audience rapidly declining in the '80s.'

Robert Daly (president, CBS Entertainment): "The '70s were a time when CBS dominated the early part and ABC dominated the latter part. It was a decade in which a single network dominated, but the '80s will be a period of intense competition between all three networks."

Russ Barry (president, 20th Century-Fox TV): "Probably the emergence of the miniseries. It let television do things movies couldn't do and it means, in some ways, more literature material. We also had comedies that were reality-based, but the family hour was a throwback to the good old days.

"I think in the '80s there will be an escalation of informational type programs, like 'Real People' and 'Lifeline.' The success of '60 Minutes' and '20-20' portends imitations and network news will get more time."

Garry Marshall ("Happy Days," "Laverne and Shirley"): "Situation comedy finally grew up to the point where it could do serious things. All the sitcoms now, with maybe one or two exceptions, do it. Even the crazy shows like 'Laverne and Shirley.' This was difficult to prove to the networks, but now they accept it.

"I would say all the new technical advances will bring more varied program and that will cut into some of the networks' ratings. I think the day of the 40-50 share is over." Creatively the '80s will be the decade of the 'you' generation. Audiences will see shows where there are live people, friends and non-actors, like 'Real People.' It won't take over, but it will be important."

Larry White (president, Columbia Pictures Television): "The most significant development was the tremendous emphasis on competition and the knocking down of the networks to the economic factors to the extent where they never believe in a show any more, and therefore a show they may think is good but doesn't do well in the beginning never has a chance to build an audience. That compulsion for instant success is something that I think has affected the business negatively."

Mike Dann (a consultant and former head of programming for CBS): "There were two great changes in the '70s. First, the unbelievable fluidity of the schedule. There used to be a first and a second season. Now there is truly only the opening of the fall season. As soon as that starts the changes begin."

"The second thing was the death of variety. It became extinct in the '70s. The very backbone of early television was the variety form. We had as many as 20 variety shows on the networks."

Gary Nardino (president, Paramount Television): "Television grew up in the 1970s and reflected what was happening more than in the past. It was especially true of the comedies. It explored values of things that were happening in the '70s. The decade brought us face-to-face with ourselves."

"I feel the harshness of the '80s, the energy problem, crises abroad, inflation, will make people look to romance and high adventure. We'll have a search for heroes. I think we'll have a return to conservative and traditional values."

Cheryl Ladd flies in other roles

By JAY BOBBIN

Cheryl Ladd is spreading her wings beyond her role as one of ABC's "Charlie's Angels." She is not simply the attractive replacement for Farrah Fawcett, but a serious actress who has starred in her own TV special, "When She Was Bad," and a recent TV movie, "When She Was Bad."

"When She Was Bad," which marked her TV film debut, was certainly the right vehicle. The film's subject, about a repressed housewife who succumbs to child abuse, couldn't help but attract and affect a wide audience. But, Cheryl had her own personal reasons for choosing this project.

"I wanted to give something back and do something that would be worthwhile and possibly help someone. I knew that a lot of attention would probably be focused on it, being my first movie-for-television, and I just felt a responsibility to do something worthwhile."

She has come a long way from her life in South Dakota. Having left for Hollywood with the members of a musical group, she landed a job as one of the singing voices on "The Pussycats."

As she recalls, "We did some bubblegum records for kids with Monkees-type music. It was wonderful... it paid the rent!"

TV WEEK

"I think it's time for her to do a little growing up. I think that anything that happens in your life applies to your work and there have been enormous changes in my life... a lot of learning and growing for me as a human being. I think that the fact she's being more of a woman and not so much of a little girl gives me more of a sense of her character so that she doesn't stagnate and remain the same all the time."

Her life reflects this philosophy. When not working, Ladd is dedicated to the regimen of physical exercise.

"Jogging is the first thing, and then I dance. I try to stay stretched and toned that way. I think the conglomeration of being a mother and doing all the work I've done over the last three years has worn me out a little bit, but I'm back on the road to health and happiness, and I'm very optimistic that it will all get better and better."

Her optimism is not part of a prophetic feeling. Already Cheryl is choosing between other special projects. "I like television, and I'd like to do another TV movie. You reach so many people, and it's such an intimate medium to reach people. Despite the gossip, there's still smooth harmony between the three Angels, according to Cheryl Ladd. "Everybody's hanging in there. I had a little bout with my health, but I'm back at it and it feels good to be back working."

She was referring to an eye accident and kidneystone problems. Yet, the pretty superstar laughs when she acknowledges, "It's been one of those years."

However, this year can only be more challenging. This get an opportunity to do a season, her role as Angel Kris Munroe has been given a major boost. Cheryl is obviously pleased that we received that makes it all very worthwhile."

The rolling hills of southern Ohio recently brought back memories to actor Cameron Mitchell.

Mitchell was on location for the new motion picture-for-television, "On the Beach," which he guest-stars as a country lawyer. "It's very much like York County, Pennsylvania, where I grew up," Mitchell said, as he surveyed the farmland between takes. "I am especially interested in the Amish country around here. There were lots of Brethren and Mennonites in my own family."

Overnight Success

Greg Evigan Comes A Long Way

By DAN LEWIS

Greg Evigan, the handsome young man from South Amboy, N.J., who became an overnight television star as a spunky ex-P.O.W. who commands his own 18-wheeled truck in the series "BJ and the Bear," would almost rather sing than act.

He's been writing his own music, and performing since he was 15. He is also an accomplished musician, who studied classical piano at the age of eight. He also plays saxophone, clarinet, flute, and drums.

He started a musical career on stage, soon after graduating from high school, when he won the role of Annas in the National Company for "Jesus Christ Superstar." After nine months on the road, he returned to New York and assumed the same role for a year on Broadway.

He was featured in "Grease," appeared in fact, in the Chicago company that also included John Travolta.

It wasn't until Greg arrived in Hollywood that he began to exploit his acting talents, in a series of appearances in episodic television, and on a few TV movies.

"BJ and the Bear" is his first starring role in a series, and it has created a new life-style for him.

"I'm getting recognized," he notes when asked if stardom has changed his life. "It's easier to cash checks."

It also restricts his time for other things, especially music. He has been able to appear on talk shows (Merv Griffin and Dinah Shore), where he sang. He says he's hoping for a record deal and occasionally takes an out-of-town weekend club engagement, time permitting. He considers himself a progressive rock performer.

It is generally acknowledged in the business that most actors find it difficult to work with kids and animals. Evigan works daily with a chimp named Sam (Bear in the series) who is his constant companion in the front seat of the truck. Evigan says he and the chimp get along famously. In fact, Evigan insists that the chimp's instincts are what creates the show's style.

"I play completely off the chimp," Evigan reveals. "He (the chimp) is the one who is natural. He knows exactly what's going on all the time, and caused a quick emergency landing. For Evigan, it appears his future as an actor will have many safe landings."

Greg jokes about his co-star. "I hear chimp's not coming to work. He's holding out for more money and script approval."

Greg sees the success of the show as something that provides light entertainment for the viewer. Although there are screeching tires, crashing vehicles, Evigan declares that the viewer "doesn't feel bad when they turn off the tube Christ Superstar." After nine months on the road, he returned to New York and assumed the same role for a year on Broadway.

It wasn't until Greg arrived in Hollywood that he began to exploit his acting talents, in a series of appearances in episodic television, and on a few TV movies.

"BJ and the Bear" is his first starring role in a series, and it has created a new life-style for him.

"I'm getting recognized," he notes when asked if stardom has changed his life. "It's easier to cash checks."

It also restricts his time for other things, especially music. He has been able to appear on talk shows (Merv Griffin and Dinah Shore), where he sang. He says he's hoping for a record deal and occasionally takes an out-of-town weekend club engagement, time permitting. He considers himself a progressive rock performer.

It is generally acknowledged in the business that most actors find it difficult to work with kids and animals. Evigan works daily with a chimp named Sam (Bear in the series) who is his constant companion in the front seat of the truck. Evigan says he and

Greg Evigan and Sam the chimp star in "BJ and the Bear," airing Saturdays, on NBC.

Battling Spoilage

David Birney stars as a schoolteacher who organizes a farming community's battle to keep a power company from despoiling its land. In "On the Beach," the new motion picture-for-television will be broadcast on CBS Wednesday Night Movies. This timely film explores the possibilities of a group of people who can accomplish their aims when they band together and not wait for the government to recognize them.

No sports blues after holidays

By RAINA GROSSMAN

You've probably gotten a 1980 calendar for Christmas. Well, if you're an Olympic nut, it's not too early to start taking note of the fact that ABC has allotted 51 hours to coverage of the Winter Olympic Games from Lake Placid, N.Y. (And how the Lake remains placid with all that activity is unknown, except that it is hard to rile up a frozen lake).

So get your calendar and your pen out and list the following so such things as social evenings don't interfere with staying glued to the tube.

The coverage begins on Feb. 12, Lincoln's Birthday. And the time is as prime as it can get. 9-11 p.m. That will be a preview because opening ceremonies are set for Wednesday, Feb. 13 from 2-4 p.m. (Remember yourself that watching the opening means calling in sick at work.) There is also a 9-11 p.m. coverage.

The next day is enough to send a sports fan into a fit of joyous leaping. It's Valentine's Day and ABC endears you with lots of love — love and games, beginning at 8:30 and continuing to 11:45 — with 30 minutes out at 11 for the news which will probably cover the Olympics.

Same schedule for Friday, Saturday is a triple header, coverage from 1:30-3 p.m.

Sunday has Olympics from 1:30-7:11 and 11:30-11:45. Monday, Wednesday and Friday, Feb. 18, 20 and 22 (now we're at Washington's Birthday) coverage is from 9-11 and again that 11:30-11:45 recap Tuesday and Thursday, Feb. 19 and 21, coverage begins at 8 instead of 9. Otherwise the times are the same as the Monday, Wednesday and Friday schedule.

The final weekend goes like this Saturday, Feb. 23, 12:30-3:30, 8-11 and 11:30-11:45. Sunday, Feb. 24, closing day, goes from 11 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Then 2:30-5 and finally 7-10:30 and that includes the closing ceremony.

Who says you have to have a dull date book right after the holidays?
